MICRONCLEAN AND NOOPLI ANNOUNCE STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP

Noopli and Micronclean are pleased to announce they have entered into a UK strategic partnership, combining Noopli's polymeric contamination control flooring solutions with Micronclean's world class cleanroom products and services.

With contamination control playing an increasingly critical role in cleanrooms and controlled environments, businesses recognise the need to have in place the best possible solutions. The Noopli-Micronclean partnership brings together a unique blend of product knowledge and experience in contamination control. Noopli's proven solution, together with years of industry experience compliments Micronclean's already extensive product range and product knowledge which has always focused on quality and innovation means that the partnership can deliver proven contamination control strategies.

"Partnering with Micronclean is a strategically sensible approach to a very mature UK cleanroom and controlled environment market," said Martin Gutu, Noopli Managing Director.

Lee Hamilton, Noopli CMPO, adds, "Noopli is proven to improve productivity, markedly lower operational costs and substantially reduce levels of cross contamination. Combine that with the extensive controlled environment knowledge, brand reputation and complimentary products that Micronclean has, and we are able to add significant operational value to businesses".

Micronclean will initially be launching 3 products as part of their 'GuardTack range':

- GuardTack 3 - An installed solution for areas of pedestrianised and light wheeled traffic.
- GuardTack 4 - An installed solution for areas of heavier wheeled traffic.
- GuardTack 5 - A self-installed solution, providing a 'contact-free' installation.

GuardTack 3, 4 and 5 can be seamlessly integrated into existing cleaning SOPs using a range of chemicals including Micronclean's CleanGuard Alpha, Beta and Delta disinfectants and detergents.

Michelle Simpson, Micronclean Associate Director, concluded, "The Noopli manufactured contamination control access mats are an excellent addition and complement our cleanroom consumables range. Micronclean have carried out extensive testing and offer full installation and annual testing as part of the service. We have a reputation for high quality products and excellent service from our dedicated team, which makes for a perfect partnership with Noopli."
